The Honorable Tom Wolf
Governor
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
225 Main Capitol Building
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania 17120

Dear Governor Wolf,

We are the ones, Governor.

We are the ones whose experiences informed your decision to ban fracking in the Delaware River Basin.

We are the ones whose experiences contribute in large part to the “scientific and technical literature and the reports, studies, findings and conclusions of other government agencies” you reviewed.

We are the ones who live in those “regions outside the Delaware River Basin” where you found evidence of adverse impacts spanning more than a decade.

We are the ones whose air and water quality have been profoundly impacted as a result.

We are the ones who bristled when your statement regarding your vote to ban fracking in the Delaware River Basin referred to its “unique characteristics” because we know that every place has unique characteristics that are worth protecting from industrial polluters.

We are the ones who know that unique doesn’t mean more important and that the water that comes out of our taps is no less worthy of protection than the water that flows from taps in the basin.

We are the ones who have asked you repeatedly to meet with us, to visit our communities, to witness the impacts firsthand.

We are the ones you have never had time for.

We are the ones the Grand Jury talked about in its report.

We are the ones who have had to advocate for ourselves because our government has failed to advocate for us.

We are the ones who attend public meetings and public hearings, who testify and submit written comments to dockets, and who demand meetings and hearings when our government doesn’t think it’s important to hear from us.

We are the ones who protest and march and rally and sign letters and start petitions and write letters to editors and organize.

We are the ones who have been arrested on our own land and jailed for defending what we love.

We are the ones our government otherwise ignores.

We are the ones who are getting sick.

We are the ones who have lost loved ones.

We are the ones who rely on charity to get a few gallons of clean water each week.

We are the ones who live in those places that are disproportionately targeted by industrial polluters because of environmental racism, or poverty, or because we live in rural communities with low-population density.

We are the ones who once fell asleep to the songs of owls and crickets instead of diesel engines and jake breaks.

We are the ones whose children's playgrounds sit in the shadows of drilling rigs.

We are the ones who have had to walk away from properties that are no longer worth what we still owe on them.

We are the ones who would love to move, but don't have the means, or have the means, but don't know where we can move to keep our families safe.

We are the ones who have cried when our trees have been felled.

We are the ones whose homes have exploded.

We are the ones who have signed non-disclosure agreements because our silence is the price we pay to get any compensation for the damage done to us.

We are the ones who advocate in solidarity with our friends and neighbors.

We are the ones who ask why our constitutional right to a healthy environment is never upheld.

We are the ones who know that the way to protect Pennsylvanians is to start the drawdown of greenhouse gas production now so we can ensure a just transition that doesn't leave communities and workers behind.

We are the ones who know that taking virtually no action on climate change means we're in for even worse impacts.

We are the ones whose children and every generation that follows will have to live with the consequences of this generation's failure to act.

We are the ones whose dreams have been stolen.

We are the ones who would never have imagined that this is what our lives would become.

We are the ones you were elected to protect, Governor Wolf.

We are the ones you abandoned.

Sincerely,

Chip Hollister, I did not sell my mineral rights because of my awareness of the dangers of fracking. Nevertheless, benzene and other fracking chemicals have appeared in my household water after fracking came to my neighborhood. This necessitated an expensive water filtration system to be installed for my family's health. This is a tax by the gas and oil industry on the long term residents of PA. There have been no benefits economically to me and the air and water have clearly been compromised. Christine M Adams , Indivisible We Rise North Central PA, There is a Marcellus Shale well pad about three miles to the southeast of me, and shallow wells and a huge Natural Gas storage pool to the west of me, about the same distance away. My deceased husband worked at the storage pool site, heard the high pressure gas line as old as he was, seventy years now (and there are still many more of those same lines all through these woods and fields here in Southern Clarion County) explode from home, went to shut down the 1951 engines, and called a repair crew out. No fire that time. When my neighbor's house exploded a third of a mile away there was a gigantic explosion and huge fire that did not go out for several days. Immediately, in less than a week, Columbia Gas, owned by Trans Canada, replaced a large section of gas lines- covering their tracks. When Tom started working for People's gas, there were seven full time employees, at the end one part time person, who had no pension. Gas companies care about money, not employees, not people. Patsy Ann Johnson, When in 1999 I bought my home in Center Township of Butler County, I knew nothing about fracking in spite of having a life-long interest in both natural environments and public infrastructure. I had been employed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the Minnesota Highway Department, and two privately owned civil engineering firms. I had taught physics and/or mathematics for three high schools and four universities (in North Dakota, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania).

I was offered contracts by two companies for fracking beneath my home. I signed neither. I do not know how many of my neighbors signed fracking contracts. On the 24.44 square miles that are my township, 38 wells have been permitted on 6 well sites. I have been able to find the location of those wells online.

In 2018 after the Revolution Pipeline explosion and fire in Center Township of Beaver County, I looked online for a map showing the exact location of that pipeline and others nearby. It did not turn out to be the simple search I expected. Finally I found a map of the proposed pipeline in my township that was in an addendum to a state government document. More information is available online now, but it is still not enough. A pipeline laid near the northwest corner of my township feeds into the Revolution Pipeline. Never have I been given any information by local or state governments about the existence of that pipeline. Neither have I been instructed by anyone what to do if there is an explosion of the pipeline near me.

Infrastructure maps are significant sources of information that should be more readily available to citizens. I drew topography maps for an engineering firm with a flood control contract from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. Because I sat at a drafting table doing that for 40 hours some weeks, I now visualize spatial information differently than most people. I feel acutely the lack of access to maps.

I have taught two courses about the history of physics and chemistry knowledge related to climate change. The first was in 2018 for the Institute for Learning in Retirement at Slippery Rock University of Pennsylvania. The second was in 2019 for the Chautauqua Institution on its grounds in New York. A similar course I proposed was accepted for 2020 but then was cancelled, along with all the other on-site courses, due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

There is no doubt that continuing to extract, transport, and burn fossil fuels will have disastrous effects.

Anyone who denies this fact is guilty of harm that already has occurred and more that will happen. Government officials at all levels need to immediately stop enabling fossil fuel production/transportation/use through improper eminent domain actions, severe restrictions of and punishments for protesting, lax regulations, corrupted enforcement, unjustified tax breaks, unreasonable subsidies, and all other means.

Constructive change is possible as shown by the reversal of depletion of the ozone layer and the reduction of formation of acid rain. Substantial support must be given for energy production that does not emit particulate matter, greenhouse gases, and other polluting substances. Payments for externalities should not continue to be imposed on people who contract diseases caused by pollution, experience heat exhaustion from excessively high temperatures outdoors, no longer use water from their wells, suffer from noise pollution around their homes, see their neighborhoods destroyed by sea level rise, lose their homes in floods, have crops wither from drought, and endure numerous other effects of burning fossil fuels. The number of people who die from these effects should never be overlooked. When making decisions, much more consideration needs to be given to extinction of plants and animals, loss of glaciers, acidification of oceans, collapse of weather patterns, and other deleterious consequences of climate change.

Societal changes based on scientific knowledge should have been made decades ago. The costs of continuing inaction will become unbearable for individuals, businesses, nonprofit organizations, and governments. Environmental catastrophe will result from beneficial changes not being made quickly enough. Please choose to preserve what we have not already lost., Butler

Steve Karas, Worsens air quality in marginalized communities. , Allegheny

Steve Todd, None, Cumberland

Sue Edwards, More and more pipeline construction is occurring along Baltimore Pike south of Media, taking away green spaces. I hear they will be carrying gas or related liquids to ports to ship to Europe to be made into plastic. We need to cut our plastic use, not enable it!, DELAWARE

Sue Myers, As an avid birdwatcher and a green energy user, I do not want any more fracking being done in this state or any area of this state. Fracking destroys the land, contaminates the land and ground water and destroys habitat all for the almighty dollar., Dauphin

Susan Castelli-Hill, The polluted air and ground water are dangerous to breathe and impossible to drink., Suffolk

Susan Gage, I am signing in solidarity with all PA residents who have been impacted. As far as I'm concerned, ALL PA residents have been affected by fracking because this state USED TO BE beautiful with pristine forests, bountiful farmland, clean streams and rivers, and air that filled our lungs without harming us. Since you allowed fracking, our sylvan state has disintegrated into thousands of wells disfiguring the landscape, leaving toxic waste in residential water wells, streams, and rivers, air that's sickening our children with lung diseases and cancer, and pipelines that, no matter what company places them, either leak or explode causing more ground water to be contaminated. The promise of more revenue and more jobs has proven to be a lie. This entire experiment has been a failure for the people who live in Pennsylvania, and to ban fracking in just one area is an insult to the rest of the state's residents., Berks

Suzanne Fisher, Science & Soul, I have children. There is no health in the current nor future environment when we treat the earth in these ways. I've seen what the pipeline can do in Exton. Stop this practice!, Chester

Suzanne McColloch, I'm not aware of shale fracking in my immediate area, Allegheny

Sydney G Smith, We have no direct contact but are horrified at what is going on across our State. , Erie

Sydney Smith, I have stopped shopping at Trax Farms for food because of the fracking activity around the farm I'm afraid that the food contains the chemicals from the fracking wellsite, Allegheny

Sydney Smith, My Son and his wife live in Canonsburg PA in Washington County they have a two-year-old and a baby on the way they are moving from Canonsburg to another town because of the prevalence of Ewings sarcoma in the Canonsburg school District area these cancers have been linked to fracking chemicals and they are afraid for their children, Allegheny

Tammy Krumbhaar, Our lives were turned upside-down when the (Mariner East) pipeline officials bought the home next-door in our residential community. Neighbors were threatened with eminent domain lawsuits if they did not comply. Our Township administrators rolled on their backs stating their hands were tied, that the pipeline will come through regardless of their feigned resistance. During a pandemic I teach from home 20 yards beside the crushing sounds of heavy duty excavation equipment, 22000 g tanker trucks, cranes, flatbeds, welding trucks with radioactive equipment and "dust badger" trucks that create more debris than it removes. Tell me, again, how this benefits our communities as a utility?, Chester

Tammy Murphy, In Solidarity, Philadelphia

Tara, Churchview Farm, There is much fracking activity in western PA, and every bit of it is dangerous and damaging to the environment, animals and wildlife, and human beings., Allegheny

Tara Zrinski, PennEast Pipeline, Adelphi's Gateway pipeline going through residential areas., Northampton

Ted Pinca, In Solidarity, Lebanon

Teri Lockton, Extraction of sand used for Di g, Los Angeles

Terri supowitz, Fracking, AOC pressor stations, and pipelines are everywhere in south western PA. The closest activity is the transport of oil and gas on the Norfolk southern trains. I can see them from my back door. If there is an accident I am dead and so is everyone in my neighborhood. Not a pleasant thought., Allegheny

THOMAS & PATRICIA WILLIS, PROGRESSIVES FOR POSITIVE CHANGE AT ANN'S CHOICE SENIOR RESIDENCE, THANKS TO GOV WOLF WE ARE IN THE PROTECTED DELAWARE RIVER VALLEY, BUCKS

Thomas Church, I've worked for a Gas Utility, had wells on my property, and have seen the destruction, mis-information and bad faith in the industry. They represent only their shareholders. You represent PA. Do not issue permits to destroy PA land, water, and health of the people who should trust you., Northampton

Thomas Dunlap, There are several within a few miles of my residence. I am concerned not only about fracking but also pesticides and herbicides as my potable water source is a deep well. I worry about the day when gas wells finally appear on adjacent properties., Westmoreland

Thomas Fistner, I don't know if there is shale gas activity near me. What I DO know is that too many of my not-so-distant neighbors are needlessly and cruelly suffering for someone else's profit., Northampton

Thomas P Ciaverelli, Any shale gas activities within PA concern me, as I want to leave a PA and USA and world that will be healthy for my children and grandchildren., Bucks

Tim, Lancaster Against Pipelines, Atlantic Sunrise Pipeline, Lancaster

Timothy L. Spiese, A 42 inch high-pressure Greenfield pipeline that will be carrying fracked gas was installed through the heart of Lancaster County Pennsylvania., Lancaster

Tina McCafferty, The frack truck traffic alone is enough reason to shut this industry down. I have lived in the Loyalsock State Forest for nearly 9 years and I am unable to open my windows due to the deafening sound of diesel trucks parading up and down Route 87, it's a disgrace. Lord only knows what the cumulative emissions impact is from the neverend vehicles used by this industry., Lycoming

Tina Paloskey, My grandparents could no longer drink their tap water due to fracking., Centre

Tom Hocking, In Solidarity, Lebanon

Tom Hoffman, The Petro chemical Mordor in Beaver County, Allegheny

Tonyehn Verkitus, Susquehanna County is full of fracking and there has been subsequent water pollution because of this., Pennsylvania

Tracy Carluccio, Delaware Riverkeeper Network, Infrastructure impacts to water, air, land, habitats and human health, Regional

Tricia Satifka, We have too many wells with no regulations where I live. I notice all of us have had insomnia since they appeared. Many of the children have been getting sicker too. It is bad for the environment and for the animals and people. We need to be doing more with a greener, cleaner energy plan. Our water needs to be safe to drink. , Washington

Valerie Wirkowski , Air is terrible everyday!!!, Allegheny

Vera Scroggins, Citizens for Clean Water, Gas wells being fracked right now on mega pads near our schools and homes and frack trucks barreling through our county seat day and night and 55 Gas Compressor Stations bellowing out air pollutants and noise 24/7 near our homes. We are the Ones . Susquehanna

Vicki Smedley, Lycoming County, There are wells all around us. Everywhere we drive there are fracking trucks. Our roads are deplorable, and many times the fracking trucks coming south on Rt. 44 are traveling loaded with frack water (and other things?) and driving Way too fast. I avoid the roads the trucks use as much as I can, but there is really only one way to get from Jersey Shore north...Rt. 44. The bright lights from these sites are also very disturbing. Our local food and drink establishments are places we never go anymore because there are so many fracking workers in those places. As a group, they are often ill-behaved, rough, and boisterous. And, very few of them wear masks. Our communities are not fun or safe anymore., PA

Victoria Lee Switzer, Hundreds of gas wells, multiple compressor stations and frack water treatment facilities dot our once tranquil landscape, Susquehanna

Victoria Switzer, We have suffered from gas drilling for over a decade here in Dimock. You know where Dimock is! Mistakes are still being made! Another group of homes recently had to go on water buffaloes for their water! Impacts continue, you allow it. DEP enables negligent and arrogant gas companies to continue to plunder our most valuable resource-WATER!, Susquehanna

Vincent Prudente, Hazards from transporting gas through my region, Philadelphia

Virgene Link-New, none of which I am aware, Washington

Voter, Earth First!, We oppose our Governor's plans involving Fracking & anticipate his cancellation of same. He will see the light!, Mendocino

Walter J Fox, No shale gas activity near me., Philadelphia

William Ferullo , 3 pipelines from 1200 ft to 1700 ft. Well pad at approx .1700 .2 others close by 3000 ft and 3400 ft. Many more in area , Bradford

William J. Granche, Fracking in ANF and local forests, some of which has resulted in water contamination, like in Johnsonburg when an unpermitted conduit path was drilled under the reservoir by Marcellus Hunt resulting in the contamination of the water source to the city, a spill of bentonite turning the water tea like in color and becoming a threat to the citizens' health on many levels. Another incident happened on the hills surrounding the Ridgway Reservoir when a well was installed without a blowout protector risking the water source of our town. This occurred shortly after the BP incident in the GULF. , Elk

William Poteau, Mariner pipelines forced us to move., Delaware
